Full Length Steel Engravings of

WASHINGTON AND EVERETT.

In the Engraving of Washington. These spectacular engravings are from original paintings by Hicks, and are engraved on steel to the highest quality of Art. They are each 24x36 inches, each costs only one dollar. So many copies of these magnificent pictures have been published upon the public as works of art—and especially in cheap, black and muddy engravings—that it is difficult to procure persons of taste that they are safe in ordering what they have not seen. We have paid the first artists their own prices, amounting to $25,000 each, and THE PUBLISHERS ARE FULLY REALLY BEAUTIFUL, AS WELL AS THE BEST PORTRAITS, and that shall be SPECTACULAR EXHIBITIONS TO ANY other engravings of the same size.

These engravings are genuine works of art—the likenesses are admirable. The portrait of Mr.
Everett will take precedence of all others.

THE NEW YORK CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE says:— "They are among the finest engravings we have ever seen, and THE PUBLISHERS ARE FULLY RESPONSIBLE FOR ALL THEY PROMISE."

TERMS, ALMOST GRATIS.
We will send, POST PAID, securely packed in rollers—

Either Engraving and a $3 Magazine, one year, for $3.
Both Engravings and a $3 Magazine, one year, for $4.

AGENTS who remit $50 at one time, will have an extra copy of each engraving. The Magazines are

Harper's
The Knickerbocker,
Godey's Lady's Book,
The Atlantic,
Blackwood.

By special arrangement, the entire year's subscription to the Magazine is paid over by us to their publishers, and subscribers receive their supply for the year direct from their respective publications offices. The cost of the engravings is paid only by the difference between the lowest rate of the regular and the special rate. If proof is retained of having been mailed. First impressions are best, therefore send early. Address,

INK!

THE VERY best of Black, Blue, and Red Ink at ALWARD'S BOOK-STORE.

Meeting There.

Dear Mother weep no more,
For Oh, I cannot bear
To see upon thy brow
That gloomy shade of care.

I know that life seems dreary,
And that we're all alone; Cessate mother, thou art weary,
And Papa's only gone.

To your home in Heaven—
And all are happy there, There all are blest—are sinless—Have golden crowns to wear;

Nay, Mother, bring my bonnet, I'll go to yonder sky,
Tell papa that you're waiting And that you often sigh

Because our home is lonely, (The mother whispered "true")
And then I know he'll kiss me Just as he used to do.

Then ceased the little prattler,
The mother's cheek was dry, She whispered, yes, my darling, Papa's in yonder sky;

He's happy dearest Eva,
And not in our slumbers When it shall please "Our Father" Of meeting "Papa" there?

Are there no beautiful visions Of Heaven, bright holy land?
Ah, yes, oh in our slumbers We see its flowery strand!

M. A. E. A.

How I came to be married.

BY REBY.

It may be funny, but I've done it.

I've got a rib and a boy. Shadows departed—oyster stews, brandy cocktails, cigar boxes, boot-jacks, absconding shirt buttons, and dominoes.

Shadows present—hoop skirts, band boxes, ribbons, gaiters, long stockings, juvenile dresses, tin trumpets, little willow chairs, cradles, bibs, sugar tarts, paregore, hives, syrup, castor oil, Godfrey's cordial, soothing syrup, rhubarb, senna, salts, squills and doctor's pills.

Shadows future—more nine pound hams, mores hives, syrup, etc., etc. I'll just tell you how I got caught.

I was almost the damdest, tea custard bashful fellow you ever did see; it was kinder my way to be taken with the shakes every time I saw a pretty girl approaching me, I'd sooner cross the street than face one, 'twasn't because I didn't like the creters, if I was behind the fence looking through a knot hole, I couldn't look long enough.

Well, my sister Lib gave a party one night, and I stayed away from home because I was too bashful to face the music.

I hung round the house whistling "Old Dan Tucker," dancing to keep my feet warm, watching the heads bobbing up and down behind the window curtains, and wished the thundering party would break up so that I could get to my room. I smoked up a bunch of cigars, and it was getting late and mighty uncomfortable, I concluded to shun up the door post. No sooner said than done, and I soon put myself in bed. "Now" says I "let her rip! Dance till your wind gives out."

And ending under the quilt, Morpheus grappled me. I was dreaming of soft shelled crabs, and stewed tripe, and was having a good time, when somebody knocked at the door and woke me up. Rap, rap. I laid low. Rap, rap, rap. Then Lib sang out "Jack, you in there?" "Yes," says I. Then came a roar of laughter. "Let us in" says she. "I won't" says I, "can't you let a feller alone?" "Are you in bed?" says she. "I am," says I. Then came another laugh. By thunder! I began to be riled. "Get out petticoat scarcrows!" I cried; "can't you get a bean without hauling a feller out of bed? I won't go out." And throwing a boot at the door, felt better. But presently, oh! mortal buttons! I heard a still, small voice; very much like sister Lib's and said, "Jack, you'll have to get up, for all the girls' things are in there." Oh, Lord, what a pickle!

Think of me in bed all covered with shawls, muffs, bonnets, and cloaks, and twenty girls outside waiting to get in!

If I had stopped to think I would have panicked on the spot. As it was, I rolled out among the wire and ribbons in a hurry. Smash went the millinery in every direction. I had to dress in the dark—for there was a crack in the door, and girls will peep—and the way I fumbled about was death to the straw hats. The critical moment came. I opened the door and found myself among the women. "Oh, my leghorn," cried one. "My dear darling winter velvet!" cried another, and they pitched in—they pulled me this way and that boxed my ears; and one bright-eyed little piece—Sal—, her name was, put her arms around my neck, and kissed me right on the lips. My nater couldn't stand that, so I gave her as good as she sent. It was the first time I ever got a taste, and it was powerful good. I believe I could have kissed that gal from Julius Caesar to the fourth of July. "Jack, we're sorry to disturb you, but won't you see us home?" she said. "Yes," said I, "I will," and I did, and had a smack at the gate, too.

After that we took a kind of turtle doveing after each other, both sighing like a barrel of new cider when the other was away.

'Twas at the close of a glorious summer day—the sun was setting behind a distant hen roost—the bullfrogs were commencing their evening songs—the pollywogs in their native mudpuddles were preparing themselves for the shades of night; Sal and myself sat upon antiquated black log, listening to the music of nature—such as tree-toads roosters and grunting pigs' and then the mellow music of a distant jackass was wafted to our ears by the gentle zephyr that sighed among the mullen stalks, and came heavily loaded with the delicious odor of hen-roosts and pig-stys.

The last lingering rays of the setting sun, glancing from the brass buttons of a solitary horseman, shone through a knot hole in the log pen full into Sal's face, dying her hair an orange peel hue, and showing off my threadbare coat to a bad advantage; one of my arms
